Year 12 student Liam Henry has recently been selected in the NAB AFL Under-18 All Australian team.

His selection follows a great performance at this year's NAB AFL Under-18 Championships where he kicked three goals for Western Australia.

Liam is a boarding student from Tammin, 184km east of Perth, enjoys playing for the School's Firsts Football team and is shaping up to be a promising prospect in this year's AFL draft.

Christ Church Principal Alan Jones commented, "Our Indigenous Student Program provides amazing opportunities for boarders from across the State."

"The boys are immersed in the school community, participate in an excellent educational journey and inspire and educate their fellow students with stories from their rich culture, ceremonies and connection to the land."

"We are extremely proud of Liam's achievements, especially in the sporting arena."

"A key highlight for our Indigenous students is our annual NAIDOC Week celebrations with activities led by the boys, including an impressive art exhibition and cultural performances during assembly."

"Through our Indigenous Student Program, we learn as much from the boys as they do from the School. They are wonderful contributors to the rich diversity of Christ Church."

Liam is one of six players selected to the NAB AFL Under-18 All Australian team and is joined by WA ruckman Luke Jackson, midfielders Deven Robertson, Jeremy Sharp and Trent Rivers, and forward Elijah Taylor.
