Conor Coleman ('19)

Conor is the youngest Australian to summit Mount Everest, achieving one of the world's most formidable physical and mental challenges. His success was driven by exceptional discipline, strategic preparation, and an unwavering commitment to growth. More than a mountaineering milestone, the journey strengthened his resilience, leadership, and appreciation for teamwork and gratitude. Today, Conor uses his experience to inspire young people to pursue ambitious goals with courage and focus. He shares the lessons of mindset, perseverance, and purposeful action learned on Everest, applying them to his professional and personal life while encouraging others to push beyond perceived limits and strive for their own summits.

Pete Wallace ('00)

Pete is a senior leader with significant experience in the mining services sector. He is recognised for his disciplined, hands-on leadership style and his ability to strategically refocus efforts to achieve optimal outcomes. Pete has established strong professional relationships across Western Australia and nationally, which continue to support successful results for the organisations he serves. With a strong commitment to leading teams, he is an ambitious and continual learner, maintaining a genuine interest in developing his industry knowledge and leadership capability. Pete is a highly engaged member of the CCGS Old Boys' Association and currently serves as Vice President, contributing his experience and leadership to the advancement of the alumni community.

Mark Crawford ('11)

Mark is a proud Old Boy and former Vice-Captain who represented the School in First XVIII Football and First XI Cricket. After returning to CCGS as Duty Master (2015 to 2018), he pursued cricket and coached Old Boys teams before moving to Melbourne in 2019 to train for collegiate American football. Mark earned a Bachelor of Science (Psychology) from the University of Minnesota in 2023 and a Master's in Human Resources and Industrial Relations (Distinction) in 2025. Over five seasons with the University's football team, he played 57 games as starting punter, set a school record for punt yards, and served in the leadership group. He is now considering his next step, in Australia or the USA.
